

Ulissi wins GP de Montreal

Diego Ulissi (UAE Emirates) outprinted his breakaway companions to win the GP de Montreal Sunday, crossing the line ahead of Jesus Herrada (Movistar) and Tom-Jelte Slagter (Cannondale-Drpac) for the victory. "Last year I was third after two great champions, Peter Sagan and Greg Van Avermaet," Ulissi said. "This year, I tried to be a little bit braver. Trying to attack earlier, trying to go for the victory, and I got it."

Jolien D'hoore wins the Madrid Challenge for the second straight time

Wiggle High5 Pro Cycling's Jolien D'hoore has won her second consecutive edition of the Madrid Challenge by la Vuelta, on the streets of the centre of the Spanish capital, as the 87km race finished in a bunch sprint. The Belgian Champion overtook American Coryn Rivera within sight of the line, to win the race by a wheel, after both riders caught up with an early jump by French rider Roxane Fournier (FDJ-Nouvelle-Aquitaine-Futuroscope).

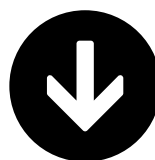

Louis Meintjes caps pretty successful summer with 12th at La Vuelta. The Uae Team is ranked fourth in the standings reserved for the teams.

35 years ago, 5th september 1982, Beppe Saronni won the rainbow jersey in Goodwood riding his red Colnago.
