

Ganna podiums for the first time in a stage race

Filippo Ganna, 21 years old, finished on the podium of a stage race for the first time in his young career by taking third overall in Argentina's Vuelta a San Juan. The young rouleur, already individual pursuit world champion and reigning European champion, placed fourth in the second stage, runner up in the time trial and won the final under 23 classification. After the time trial, he held the race leader's jersey for two days. The Dubai Tour next month is now on his radar in an effort to refine his form ahead of the upcoming track world championships from February 28 to March 4 in Apeldoorn, The Netherlands.
